

Positions for associate members

The German Research Foundation (Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft) at Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz invites applications for the interdisciplinary Research Training Group 1876 "Early Concepts of Man and Nature: Universal, Local, Borrowed". We offer positions for associate members (without funding, with possibility to apply for material costs).

The Research Training Group is directed by scholars from the fields of Egyptology, Ancient Near Eastern Studies, Pre- and Protohistorical Archaeology (Pleistocene Archaeology), Near Eastern Archaeology, Classical Archaeology, Classics (Greek and Latin), Byzantine Studies and Medieval German Studies.

In the Research Training Group's research programme, the object is to record concepts of man and nature in the Near Eastern, Northeast African and European area in the period from ca. 100.000 years B.C.E. until the Middle Ages – starting out from textual, pictorial and material sources – by means of examples and to study them in a culturally immanent as well as transcultural respects. In order to align the spectrum of potential fields of topics in a targeted manner four main focal points of research have been defined:

- (1) Primordial conditions and elements, the origin and the end of the world;
- (2) Natural phenomena, the forces of nature, and natural catastrophes;
- (3) Flora, fauna, and natural environment;
- (4) The conceptualization of the human body, of disease, healing and death.

Topics for PhD theses must be chosen from one of these four areas and belong to one of the academic disciplines mentioned above.

We are looking for dissertation projects that will connect with and complement dissertation projects within the Research Training Group as well as dissertation projects belonging to one of the four areas.

For detailed information regarding our programme for research and training and the academic staff involved with our graduate school, please refer to our homepage (<http://www.blogs.uni-mainz.de/fb07-grk-man-nature/>).

Requirements for appointment:

- a diploma or master's degree (or equivalent) with excellent results in one of the disciplines mentioned above and fulfil the necessary requirements for studying for a doctoral degree in either Fachbereich (Faculty) 05 or 07 of Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz (https://www.uni-mainz.de/studium/171_ENG_HTML.php)

We provide:

- a PhD programme with clearly defined steps and instruction
- ample opportunities for intensive professional and interdisciplinary exchange
- close supervision by two professors of different academic disciplines of the Research Training Group's core faculty
- a mentoring programme with cooperating partners in Germany and abroad
- traineeships within cooperating institutes
- additional funding for staying for up to four weeks abroad at a research institute cooperating with our programme as well as for attending conferences inside and outside Germany
- classes helping you to acquire key qualifications (e.g. time-management or academic writing courses)
- a modern and pleasant working environment
- optional six months' funding for developing a new research project once you have completed your PhD

The Research Training Group cannot provide employment for associate members, but they are free to seek employment both inside and outside the university. Associate members are equated to employed doctoral students.

Alumni of the Research Training Group have the possibility to apply for a six-month-startup-funding for another research project.

We expect:

- preparation of a doctoral thesis within our research programme
- scientific training within a structured dissertation programme
- continuous participation in the study programme
- cooperation with other PhD students and scholars from neighbouring fields and discipline
- after the three year funding period: doctorate at the Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz

The following documents must be provided:

- application form (available on the website for download)
- a letter of motivation
- a curriculum vitae
- a complete transcript of academic records, including the last school report obtained before entering university (Abitur or equivalent)
- a résumé of the graduate thesis you submitted (3 pages)
- your graduate thesis in a pdf-file
- an exposé for a PhD thesis in one of the areas of the Research Training Group, summarizing the idea, outlining research questions and state of the art, approach and methods to be used, work and time schedule (4 pages)
- two letters of reference from members of academic staff allowing us to judge your abilities (to be sent before the closing date directly to the spokesperson)
- if available: a list of attended conferences and publications

Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz is keen to increase the number of women among its scholars and thus encourages women to apply. The university supports its members in reconciling professional and family responsibilities and offers family-friendly study and working conditions. Disabled persons will be given preference if equally qualified. It is recommended to refer to a possible handicap in the application.

Further details regarding the application process and the selection of candidates are given on the homepage of our graduate school. You may also contact a member of the Research Training Group's staff in your discipline if you have a specific question. For organizational questions you may contact the coordination office.

Applications are accepted at any time. Please submit your complete application in electronic form (pdf) to the Research Training Group spokesperson Univ.-Prof. Dr. Tanja Pommerening (grk1876@uni-mainz.de).
